Abstract

Method and Arrangement for Administering Performance Features for Telephone Subscribers

The administration of performance features for telephone inscribers ensues proceeding from a PC (TLPC) of the subscriber that is in communication via an Internet connection with an Internet server (WWW-s) that, in addition to communicating with the PC, can also communicate via the telephone network (TN) with the telephone exchange (LE1) in which the data base (TB) pertaining to the performance features is located.

FIGURE 1